Investigation turned up a Cordelia Eoline Spearman in "Sutton Family Tree" on Ancestry.com. The following information was provided by the owner of the tree, ancestry member ptw49, on 16 Sep 2023:

Yes, that's the Eoline who wrote that "book." She never went by Cordelia, that was her grandmother's name. I have no idea how the Family Search Library found her research. It was not a published book- at least not that I am aware. She was an avid genealogist for years, doing all her research the hard way - primarily by mail and visits to the Library of Congress. In my research I have found that she made very few errors. She probably finished her research in the early '60s.

According to this tree, Eoline was born 8 Nov 1887 in Steubenville, Ohio, and died 13 Jan 1977 in Jacksonville, Florida. She married George Augustus Keen Sutton 24 Apr 1915 in Sharon, Pennsylvania. Eoline was the daughter of Francis Spearman (1862 - 1896) and Jennie le Blond Tribby (1862 - 1916) and the granddaughter of George Tribby (1831 - 1911) and Anna Jane Le Blond (1838 - 1918).

Cordelia Eoline Spearman is in the FamilySearch family tree, ID number KH72-XCK.

Tribby

Trebe, Treby, Tribby

The name Treby appears early in New England history.

Marblehead, Mass. - John Treby appears as early as 1668-74.

Newport, R. I. - John Treby signed a petition against imposts in 1668.

New London, Conn. - Peter Treby was mentioned in 1667.

Newport, R. I. - George Treby is referred to in 1692.

As they were all in Newport at one time or another it is evident that the family originally settled there - that is, they settled as much as sailors and sailmakers can be said to settle. George could have been the father of John and Peter, although he may have been their brother.

1 Peter Treby, a "sailmaker" of Newport in the Colony of Rhode Island and Providence Plantations d. 1713; m. Ruth ---. Peter Treby seems to have been in and out of Connecticut and Rhode Island during his lifetime but he was a resident of Rhode Island at the time of his death. John Tribby was a sailor during the revolution serving from Connecticut. He lived at Newport, R. I., New London, Conn., and Exeter, R. I. before migrating to Ohio about 1810. There he had a farm on the Arthurholts Mill Road which follows the course of Yankee Run. The house was across the stream from the road and pedestrians used a crude foot bridge which was suspended by wires while horses and vehicles forded the stream. During a spring freshet John was returning from the mill with the ground grain in his saddle bags when the bank gave way with him and he and the horse plunged into the raging torrent. Being unable to free himself, he was drowned. Children of John and Abigail Tribby were:-

George Tribby was a wagonmaker and had a prosperous business in Sharon, Pa. for many years. Along in the early '80s his factory was completely destroyed by fire and it became necessary for him to engage in some other occupation. For years he had "sat up" with sick friends and frequently had been called upon to "lay out" the dead. He was not a doctor and professional nursing was quite out of the question. There was, however, a good opening for an undertaker in Sharon so an undertaker he became and followed that calling for nearly 30 years - after which he was in the real estate business. Children were:-

Concerning the Heirs of Peter Treby

Much of the will of Peter Treby cannot be deciphered. Everything was left to his wife, Mehitable for life.

At her death his son John was to receive a "double portion" viz. twice as much as a child's part. His son Peter was to have one and a third as much as each of the daughters.

His daughter Mary Nichols was to have an equal portion with her sister. Mehitable was the sister but the part of the will referring to her and that mentioning his son, Samuel is obliterated.

A deed to John Manchester dated Dec. 26, 1787 conveys the shares of Mary Treby Nichols and Peter Treby through their children-leaving only the claim of Samuel Treby and that of Mehitable Treby Peck through her daughter Mary. Obviously the claim of John Treby had been already settled.

John Treby

John Treby who was born in Newport, R. I. between 1725 and 1730 lived in Newport and in New London, Connecticut. Although he was not in the Military Census of Rhode Island for 1777, he served as a Private in part of Capt. Gorton's Company under the command of Lt. Caleb Lewis, Col. Dyer's Regiment, Nov. 8-Dec. 8, 1777. He also served as Private in part of Capt. Samuel Gorton's Company under Lt. Caleb Lewis, Dec. 20, 1777-Jan. 20, 1778.

(The above information was secured from Herbert O Brigham, State Record Commissioner, at the State House in Providence, R. I.)

In the census of 1790 John Treby was in Connecticut (New London). His family consisted of 2 males over 16, one male under 16 & 4 females.

The records of the Probate Court for the District of New London, Connecticut disclose an insolvent estate in the name of John Tribbee- of which estate Isaac Tribbee qualified as administrator on June 17, 1794.

(The above information was secured from S. Victor Prince, Judge of Probate Court, at the Municipal Building, New London, Conn.)

"Continental frigate 'Confederacy' 36 guns-built on the Thames below Norwich and launched in 1778. On Oct. 20, 1779 sailed from Philadelphia for France, having on board French Minister, Gerard, and newly appointed ambassador to Spain, John Jay, as passengers. On the 7th of November the vessel encountered a great storm and lost all her masts and sails and was obliged to make her way to Martinico - reaching that port Dec. 18th. Being refitted, the 'Confederacy' put to sea again but was subsequently Mar. - April 1781 captured off the Virginia Capes by a British 74 and taken to Charlestown, S. C., then in enemy possession.

Capt. Seth Harding transferred in 1778 from the 'Oliver Cromwell' to the 'Confederacy' and was with the ship when she was captured. The crew when the 'Confederacy' was dismasted is presumed to be the same as when she was captured."

"The 'Confederacy' was a continental ship of 32 guns, and was built in the Thames River at Norwich, under the direction of the Governor and Council of Safety of Connecticut by Jedidiah Willet under the superintendence of Major Joshua Huntington, who, as agent of the state for the Continental Congress, procured materials and workmen. She was launched Nov. 8, 1778, and was towed to New London to be rigged, fitted, and recruited.

Seth Harding was her first and only commander. She was ordered to France carrying as passengers John Jay, the American Minister, and Count Gerard, a French envoy. She had not been out long, however, when she encountered a severe gale, in which she was dismasted and forced to put into the nearest friendly port which was Martinice, W. I.

The Martinico Gazette, Dec. 16, 1779 contains the following notice:-
'The Continental frigate, Confederacy, 40 guns, Capt. Seth Harding, came into our road. She left Philadelphia Oct. 27, 1779, destined for France, met with a gale on the Banks of Newfoundland, lost her masts, had six feet of water in her hold, and arrived in the midst of perils. The Count de Gerard, late minister from the court of France to the United States, and his excellency, John Jay, who goes to represent the United States at the Court of Madrid, were on board." They sailed for France Dec. 28, 1779 in the French frigate, "L'_____."

The 'Confederacy' refitted and returned home. She next went to Cape

Francis for clothing and other supplies for the army, and on the homeward voyage fell in with two enemy vessels, to which she surrendered June 22, 1781. The British changed her name to 'Confederate' and sent her to England as convey to some transports and with nearly 100 prisoners. From a letter written to Governor Trumbull from Norwich June 8, 1782 by Capt. Harding it seems that he was exchanged "ten months ago" - indicating that he had been a prisoner in England until August 1781.

George Follen

John Jay was appointed Ambassador to Spain Sept. 27, 1779. He started on Oct. 20, 1779.

"On Oct. 16th he received his instructions to induce Spain to form a commercial treaty similar to that with France, to acquire a port on the Mississippi in Spanish territory, and to obtain a loan of five millions, or at least a subsidy, in exchange for the Floridas. The navigation of the Mississippi was to be preserved at all hazards. Four days later, Jay set sail in the 'Confederacy,' the government frigate that had been ordered to take Gerard back to France, on the arrival of his successor, Laserna. With Jay went his wife, to the distraction of Governor Livingston and his wife, who had no time to bid their daughter goodbye; his nephew, Peter Jay Munro; his brotherinlaw, Col. Livingston afterwards judge of the U. S. Supreme Court, as his private secretary; and Mr. Carmichael, a member of Congress as his public secretary. A violent storm disabled the ship and forced the captain to make for Martinique where on Dec. 18th, they cast anchor in the harbor of St. Pierre, narrowly escaping the British fleet which captured on the same day French merchantmen off Port Royal. Some indiscreet attempts on the part of Gerard to discover Jay's instructions had created a coolness between the diplomats, which was increased by a difference of opinion on the proper course to be taken after the storm. —————

At Martinique the officers of the 'Confederacy' naturally fraternized with the French officers who chanced to be on shore and Jay, finding the Americans distressed for lack of money, characteristically advanced them 100 guineas. The idea of their being obliged to sneak from the company of French officers for fear of running in debt with them for a bowl of punch was too humiliating to be tolerated, and too destructive to that pride and opinion of independent equality which he wished to see influence all our officers.

Ten days were lost at Martinique, then on a frigate lent by the governor, the party embarked for Toulon and Jan. 22, 1780 disembarked unexpectedly at Cadiz, whither they were driven by English Men of War. Jay was now, as he expressed it, "very disagreeably circumstanced, without letters of credit or recommendation to anyone there, with no money even except what he borrowed through the Courtesy of a fellow passenger."

Ohio Settlers

Ohio settlers from Connecticut came by way of Pittsburg with ox teams and carts; cut road from Youngstown to Vienna through the woods; about 1800 it was unbroken forest; deer, bears, wolves, and turkeys were abundant. Rude cabins of logs were built with greased paper for window panes. The settlers went to Salt Springs in Weathersfield Township with kettles and boiled salt for a week or ten days and got very little as the Indians had a monopoly. A hog pen was used temporarily for the first school in 1805 and it was taught by Miss Tamar Bartholomew. Indians were numerous and friendly. The largest bear killed weighed 400 pounds. There was a tribe of Indians on the west bank of the Pymatuning; the remnant of a Chippewa tribe. Their totem was a black rattlesnake.

In September 1800 Warren, Ohio had two log cabins - no other buildings. There were at that time a great many rattlesnakes in Trumbull County. Upon one occasion the natives had a party and staged a big snake hunt. Although the Indians were friendly they were a bit troublesome at times. Before the War for the Preservation of the Union slave hunters sometimes appeared looking for runaways on their way to Ashtabula.

'The Hazard Family of Rhode Island'

1635-1694

by Caroline E Robinson

pages 1,3,13,32,472

The characteristics of this family are decision of character, pride, a certain amount of independence, and a slight reserve. They have a square head with a high forehead, brown hair and blue eyes, straight nose and firmly set jaw. The complexion is fair to florid.

1 Thomas Hazard 1610-1680; m. (1) Martha — who died 1669; m. (2) Martha (the widow of Thomas Sherrif). She died 1691. Thomas Hazard appears first in Boston in 1635. Several years later he was in Portsmouth, R. I. In 1639 he with 8 others signed a contract preparatory to the settlement of Newport, R. I. The founders of Newport were Judge, William Coddington; Elders, Nicholas Eaton, John Coggeshall, Wm. Brenton, John Clarke, Jeremy Clarke, Thomas Hazard and Henry Bull. William Dyre was the clerk. His will was proved in 1680. He names his wife, Martha, as his beloved 'yoke fellow' sole executrix and gives her all his moveable and unmoveable estate. His son Robert and his daughters receive a shilling each. (A ship's carpenter from Wales.)

2 Robert Hazard 1635-1710; was a freeman of Portsmouth, R. I. in 1665. From then until 1698 his name appears in the colonial records as chosen to fill some important office. In 1676 Robert Hazard was on a committee to procure boats for the defense of the colony and there were to be four boats with 5 or 6 men in each. On the same date, he and three others were empowered to take exact account of all persons provided with corn, guns, powder, shot and lead and also to take exact account of all the inhabitants of the island, 'English, negroes, and Indians.' A barrel of powder was put in charge of himself and three others and two guns in the yard of the late William Benton were to be impressed into the country's service and put on carriages and fitted for service. In 1676 also he was appointed commissioner to take care of and order the several watches and wards of the island. Soon after 1687 he built his house in Kingston. It was very large—largest in town for many years. Dr. William Shaw, being called to attend a sick person, drove into the back yard and entered the house through the kitchen door. When he went out he asked if the family always walked from the front door to the rear of the house or did they have some conveyance? The ell was longer than the main body of the house and in this ell was a capacious chimney. Inside the chimney were two stone seats, where tradition says the little slave children were wont to sit; the heat from the big oak logs being no mean substitute for the hot sands of Africa.

The boundary of the land about the mansion mentions the 'big rock' which is about ten feet high. It is to be seen in a substantial stone wall and gave rise to the familiar name of his grandson 'Roc' Robert. That was his signature Robert Roc (his mark) Hazard. He sold his farm and some other property to his son, Robert, for 300 in 1710. The son willed it to his son Robert in 1718. He owned Point Judith Neck. In fact he owned more than 1000 acres of land all told.

He m. Mary Brownell, daughter of Thomas and Anne Brownell. She was born 1639 and died 1739. Boston Gazette Feb. 12, 1739 'Newport Feb. 9th. Mrs Mary Hazard, widow of Mr. Robert Hazard of South Kingston and grandmother to the deceased George Hazard Esq., late Deputy Governor of Rhode Island, departed this life the 28th day of January last in the 100th Year of her age, she was decently interred the Wednesday following. She had 500 children, grandchildren, and greatgrandchildren and left behind her 205 of the afore said number. She was accounted a useful gentlewoman both to the Rich and Poor on many accounts and particularly among sick persons for her Skill and Judgment which she did gratis.'

3 Robert Hazard 2nd was born in England; d. 1718; m. Amy --- who died a few months before her husband. Will gives:--Son, 'Stout' Jeffrey 300 acres of land which was called 'the farm where I now live;' Thomas received 200 acres; Robert got the old mansion house and 120 acres but the house and 20 acres were not his until his grandmother's death. Each of the three daughters received 100 when of age. Inventory mentions 326 head of cattle including 17 horses, 6 mares, 5 colts, 4 yearlings, riding beasts, etc.

4 Robert Hazard 3rd b. Jan. 9, 1703; d. 1775; was called Robert 'Roc' Hazard. He removed to East Greenwich early in life and the births of all his children are recorded in that town. In 1739 he sold the old homestead to his Uncle George. By the terms of his father's will he was to have possession of the old home only after the death of his grandmother which occurred in 1739, she being 100 years old. He m. Martha --- Mar. 1727 (her surname is illegible). The marriage occurred in North Kingstown and is recorded there.

5 Jeremiah Hazard b. July 25, 1736; d. 1773; m. Nov. 6, 1760 Phebe Tillinghast. In his will written June 21, 1773, he gave to his son Jeffrey 'all of my lands lying in Exeter and in West Greenwich'; to his wife, Phebe, all lands lying in Coventry (115 acres); also provides for his daughter, Abigail.

6 Abigail Hazard b. Feb. 14, 1765; d. May 1842; m. 1780 John Tribby. They migrated to Ohio. John Tribby was born 1758; died May 1819 (was drowned in Yankee Run near Brookfield, Ohio).

Brownell

1 Thomas Brownell 1612-1665; m. Ann Bourne (parentage unknown) 1638 in England. He came over in 1639 to Little Compton, R. I. and was later at Portsmouth. He was commissioner in 1655, '61, '63; deputy 1664.

2 Mary Brownell 1639-1739; m. Robert Hazard who was born 1635 and died 1710. She had at the time of her death 500 children, grandchildren, and greatgrandchildren of whom 205 were still living. She was a very useful woman and highly respected.

Tillinghast

1 Rev. Pardon Tillinghast was born near Beachy Head, Sussex County, England in 1622. He came to Providence, R. I. Nov. 19, 1643; died Jan. 29, 1718 aged 96 years. He received a grant of land and was a freeman in 1645; m. (1) Sarah Butterworth 1653; m. (2) Lydia Taber of Tiverton, R. I. on Feb. 16, 1664. She was born in 1640 and died 1720 aged 80 years. Pardon went to Newport in 1658 and returned to Providence in 1665.

The following extracts are transcribed from the records of the First Baptist Church in Providence, R. I., the oldest of this denomination in America and is here given as published in 'Benedict's History of the Baptists'. This church was organized in 1639 and at first met for worship in a grove, unless in wet and stormy weather, when they assembled in private houses. The line of pastors follows:-

- 1 Roger Williams
- 2 Rev. Chad Brown
- 3 Mr. Wickenden
- 4 Rev. Grerory Dexter
- 5 Thomas Olney
- 6 Pardon Tillinghast

The Tillinghast arms consist of a shield surmounted by a crow with the motto 'Be Just and Fear not'; upon the field of the shield is a chevron, harrows, and a spade, the emblems of husbandry.

2 Pardon Tillinghast Jr. was born at Providence, R. I. Feb. 18, 1667 and died at West Greenwich, R. I. Oct. 15, 1743 aged 76 years; m. (1) Mary Keesch in 1688; m. (2) Sarah Ayers. Mary Keesch was born 1670 and died Feb. 7, 1726 aged 56 years.

Pardon Tillinghast 2nd settled in Greenwich, R. I. He was one of 13 persons who purchased vacant lands in the Narragansett Bay District from the General Assembly of Rhode Island (some 35,000 acres for 1100 pounds, or at the rate of 15 3/4 cents per acre).

Pardon 2nd, on his homestead farm later called the Mansion Estate, at the death of his wife, Mary, located a family cemetery in the middle of a field some distance from the road and built a stone wall around it with a gate of iron. In this cemetery Mary, Pardon, and Sarah are buried—also many of their descendants. It is being cared for by those living. Pardon Tillinghast 2nd was a member of the Colonial Assembly of Rhode Island in 1704, 5, 6, 8, 14, 19, 20, 22, and 1725.

3 John Tillinghast was born at East Greenwich, R. I. in 1690 and died in West Greenwich Oct. 21, 1777 aged 87 years; m. (1) Anna—; m. (2) Phebe Green; m. (3) Anna—; m. (4) Abigail Thomas ne Brown who was born 1693 and died 1776 aged 83 years. John and Abigail were married at Wickford, R. I. in 1739.

4 Phebe Tillinghast b. 1740; d. Milton, Ohio Oct. 17, 1810 aged 70; m. (1) at West Greenwich Nov. 6, 1760 Jeremiah Hazard, b. Jan. 25, 1736 and died 1783; m. (2) John Mowrey. While Phebe was a widow she was a doctress and practiced medicine and midwifery for a large part of the country where she then lived in Rhode Island, and made syrups and salves that found a large sale. Phebe and John Mowrey went to Ohio in 1810 to live with their children Tillinghast Mowrey and Phebe Vaughn.

Afterwards was at Vineland and thence went 1651 to New London and in 1656 he was among the freemen of Portsmouth, R. I. and not long afterwards at Providence of which he was representative in 1661. Later he lived at Tiverton. He m. Lydia Masters. Philip is said to have been the son of Sir John Taber who was knighted at Whitehall by King Charles II but this seems unlikely as there is little to prove it.

2 Lydia Taber 1640-1720 m. Rev. Pardon Tillinghast Feb. 16, 1664

1 John Masters of Cambridge came in the fleet with Winthrop. He was a freeman May 18, 1631; a man of skill and enterprise; d. Dec. 21, 1639; m. Jane --- who died Dec. 26, 1639. Philip Quigle lived on the road west from Breckfield Center in 1811;
John Tribby on the road to Breckway's Mills off the road to Sharon;
Thomas Patten north of the center on the west side of the road.

Thomas Patten seems to have been there before the other two--soon after 1806 or possibly at that time.

Indians wandered up and down Yankee Run and often caused annoyance.
The boys played together. White boys beat at wrestling but Indians could outrun them.

Michael Quigle owned land in Trumbull County in 1809.
